American Senior Communities Chef Wins Competition

INDIANAPOLIS – It may not have gotten the attention of the Food Network, but one local cooking competition recently celebrated chefs in senior living communities.

The first-ever Culinary Caregiver Competition was held last week. Here, senior living community chefs from around the state competed to make the best, three-course meals.

Essentially, teams had to make appetizers, entrées, and desserts, with the first two courses incorporating required ingredients that were kept secret.

In the end, American Senior Communities was named the winner, thanks to the efforts of Chef Mike Minch and Sous Chef Ethan Wise. Minch will receive an award from the Indiana Healthcare Association later this month.

Ivy Tech Hospitality Program hosted a Chef competition for the Indiana Health Care Association. Many of the competing chefs were Alumni of our program and IHCA gave a $500 scholarship to 5 of our students to serve as Sous Chef to the competing chefs. Below is a link to the video overview of the competition which may be helpful in marketing. Note that President Sue Elsperrmann served as one of the tasting judges as did Jolene Ketzenberger (Co-Chair of the HOSP advisory committee).

Tasty Takeout: His Place Eatery Soul Food

By Dylan Hodges,

Chef James Jones of His Place Eatery recently joined us to discuss the restaurant's new location and showcase some of their signature dishes. His Place Eatery, which opened its second location at 86th and Ditch Road just four weeks ago, has received a positive response from the community. The original location at 30th and Shadeland Avenue remains open and continues to serve its loyal customers.

Chef James highlighted several menu items, including the Bourbon Peach Burger, fried chicken with traditional soul food sides, smoked meatloaf, and a variety of barbecue offerings like smoked brisket and ribs. He also introduced "The Experience," a fried bologna sandwich with barbecue sauce and coleslaw on an onion loaf bun.

The restaurant's dessert offerings include banana pudding, bourbon pecan pie with chocolate drizzle, sweet potato cheesecake, and peach cobbler. Chef James emphasized his passion for food and the joy of seeing customers enjoy the dishes, noting that the menu reflects his and his wife's love for traveling and discovering new flavors.

His Place Eatery continues to offer a diverse menu that caters to both soul food and barbecue enthusiasts, with each dish crafted to provide a memorable dining experience.

Culinary High School Students Visit The Hospitality Program

Two Dual Credit High School Students toured the Hospitality Program this fall. These schools included: Rochester High School and Kokomo Area Career Center. The Hospitality Program tour includes all the state-of-the-art kitchens. Students learned all about the three majors Ivy Tech offers – Baking, Culinary Arts and Hospitality Management.

Dual Credit College Courses are a path that Ivy Tech Community College offers to high school and career center students for free. This gives high school culinary/hospitality focused students a head start on earning industry certification in ServSafe Food Protection and credits towards a certificate or degree at Ivy Tech.

The Ivy Tech Hospitality Administration program offers dual credit agreements through 27 high schools and career centers in central Indiana, plus additional rural areas. There are 150 dual credit Culinary/Hospitality classes being taught by 44 credited and approved high school teachers. Ivy Tech's dual credit programming reaches over 3,000 high school students; bringing college coursework to their classrooms while strengthening the pipeline for future students in our Ivy Tech program.
